

Golden Age

Part VII

By Ciarán Handley

21st September 2018

Golden Age

Chapter 1

The deadlock still has not been broken

The situation is most critical. With the continuing failure of governments to act responsibly and in light of continuing efforts to block Golden Age, I have no choice but to deny another technology.

This is one that I developed specifically for the Space Industry. It is a formula for Solid Rocket Fuel that would provide approximately 80 % of the thrust of conventional Solid Rocket Fuel but for twice the duration. The Relative Density of the fuel remains unchanged. I have the exact formula modification.

I developed this fuel to allow more efficient boosters to help rockets reach orbit. However with the current political climate that is not the primary purpose that governments would wish to use it for. Better to deny it to humanity than to see it misused.

Intro to In a Mirror Darkly

Golden Age

End of Part VII