

Stayin' Alive

Part V

By Ciarán Handley

9th September 2018

Stayin' Alive

Chapter 1

A number of years ago I was walking home from the pub in Dublin when I heard screams from an alleyway

I had about five pints of Guinness in me. I was walking back after the pub to try to clear my head. I went into the alleyway. There were four guys armed with knives. I was unarmed. They had grabbed a woman and dragged her into the alleyway.

I took down the first three guys in a matter of seconds. In time of need I can move with a blur of speed. The fourth guy stabbed me from behind in my right kidney. However both myself and the woman got out safely. Even if I did have a hole in me that I did not have beforehand. However it healed without any scar. Remember the document I released on 5th September on Regeneration? Which is part of Alchemy.

It wasn't until years later that I found out that the four guys were Special Forces. Sent by the Pentagon over research that I had released in 2008. The Pentagon had asked me back in 2008 to work for them, once they saw my research. I told them no. Actually I told them to fuck off. My research was for healing but they wanted it as a weapon.

The Pentagon decided that if they could not control the research then nobody would have it

This is why they ordered my assassination. The woman was just some passerby that the four men grabbed in order to lure me in.

This is what happened that night.

Village Ambush – The Last Samurai

Stayin' Alive

End of Part V